What Is The Best Month To Pressure Wash A house?

"Pressure washing should be done on all houses at least once a year to prevent algae and other contaminants from accumulating. The ideal time would be between March and November. As the year winds down, you will want to ensure that your home is cleaned up before any of the freezing temperatures. The best way to maintain your outdoor surfaces is to use pressure washing as a regular maintenance task. This will prolong the life of your exterior siding, concrete, and every other surface." - Christopher Jimenez @ www.dprowash.com
